Our Pathetic Existence

👁 17 ✓ 0 ★ 2

Chapter 1 by Don Blake

Let us all think about our standings in the world. You are 1 in 7000000000+ people. All of which are moderately better or worse than you, in the end no one is that much more gifted than any other person, but that isn't particularly inspiring either considering that makes us all more or less the same. Good job if you managed to "make a life" that means you were luckier than the average person and you get to pretend you're fundamentally different compared to the rest of society, but at best you are only known by 70% of the world and no one outside of earth has ever heard of you.
